The City of Seattle, King County, and the University of Washington are now offering free COVID-19 testing in two sites across Seattle. Drive-through testing is available, but you must first register online <http://www.seattle.gov/mayor/covid-19> or over the phone (206) 684-2489.

If you need help with registration, call (206) 684-2489. Phone lines are open Monday through Friday, 8:30AM to 5:00PM and Saturday, 10:00AM to 3:00PM.

If you need in-language assistance, please tell them in English the language you need, they will then connect you with an interpreter.

The facilities are located in north and south Seattle and will operate Monday thru Saturday from 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and accommodate drive thru clients who book ahead through the website. These sites are designed and intended for drive-up testing and are not ADA compliant for pedestrians. If you need walk-up testing with ADA accommodations, don't worry, there are many options for free COVID testing, please visit Public Health – Seattle King County's website or call 206-477-3977 for more information.

Clients at the testing facilities will not be charged for testing and will not receive a bill, regardless of health insurance status. For insured clients, UW Medicine will handle the billing of an individuals' private insurance, Medicaid or Medicare. Under Washington law, insurance companies cannot charge co-pays for COVID-19 testing. For uninsured clients, UW Medicine will seek reimbursement directly from the federal, Families First Coronavirus Response Act Relief Fund for the cost of the test.

FREE COVID-19 TESTING SITES

Free or low-cost testing is available at several King County locations regardless of immigration status. Multiple languages are spoken and phone interpretation is available at each site. Testing locations currently available include the following. Testing may also be available in other locations. King County Public Health updates this list weekly.

Most testing is completed through healthcare providers. You should call your healthcare provider if you feel sick, live in the same household as someone who has tested positive for COVID-19, or have been in close contact with someone diagnosed with COVID-19. Each healthcare system has its own testing processes. Many providers require appointments to prevent overcrowding and to be sure that they have supplies. What if I don't have a healthcare provider or if my provider doesn't have testing available? If you need to be tested and don't have a provider who can do the test, please don't delay. Call the King County COVID-19 call center, which is open 7 days a week 8 AM – 7 PM, at 206-477-3977

They are working with providers, such as parents, educators, and nannies, to set up “home pods” of three or fewer children. They are focused on providing care for families where the adults have to continue working. The company vets potential providers in two ways — a federal database or a quicker background check — and lets parents choose the option they prefer. Some providers are licensed; others are license-exempt because of the duration of the services.
